DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, NOVEMBER 15, 1833.

OUR OWN SMOKY CITY.—We extract, for this paper, a portion of an article which appeared in the Friend, of yesterday, descriptive of Pittsburgh, its bright prospects, and the country around. We concur in the opinion, expressed by the able editor of the paper from which we extract, that "Pittsburgh will reign, enthroned upon her many waters and many hills, mistress in size, as well as in strength, of the whole valley of the west."

Blessed with every advantage which a benign Providence has bestowed on this terrestrial globe—unsurpassed healthfulness—an inexhaustible supply of fuel, which not only contributes to domestic comfort, but aids in our manufacturing operations—a superabundance of the ore of the most valuable of all the metals—a soil admirably adapted to the various agricultural purposes, and calculated to sustain a numerous and vigorous population—these advantages, alone, would ensure the growing prosperity of our city. These, however, are not the only advantages of our situation; the pre-eminent advantage which our city enjoys is its location, its position in relation to the Atlantic cities, and the great valley of the west. Being neither an eastern nor a western city, she partakes of the character of both. At Philadelphia, viewed as a part of the great west, and at St. Louis, as an eastern city, she is, in reality, neither the one nor the other, but the point of connection between the valley and the sea board. The Ohio, with its outlet, in the center of this immense valley, stretches out its great length, of a thousand miles, towards the eastern cities, and rests its head near the foot of the Allegheny; and near that head stands our city. Thus situated, we have a free intercourse with the great country which extends to the Rocky Mountains, and a speedy communication with the Atlantic cities.

To show the commanding position which our city occupies, it is only necessary to mention that, when Philadelphia wishes to form a connection with the great west, her canal terminates at Pittsburgh—when a communication, by water, between the capital of this great republic and its western members, is sought, its only outlet to the west is fixed on the borders of our city—when New York wishes for a shorter and more secure rout to the great valley of the Mississippi, than that by the stormy lakes of the north, she intersects the Allegheny, at Olean, and pursuing its sinuous course, arrives at our landing place—and, finally, when Baltimore plans a great rail road, to the Ohio, she discovers that her most natural, shortest, and cheapest rout is along the Youghiogheny, and our own Monongahela, to the confines of our city. Such is the admirable position of our town that, each of those great cities, in seeking the best rout to the immense valley of the west, finds itself irresistibly attracted to the head of the Ohio.—Nature seems to have extended the Ohio, upward from the Mississippi, a thousand miles, towards the mountains, in one united body, to seek a healthful position for a town, and then to have divided this stream, and stretched out one arm to the north and the other to the south, to intercept all traveling and commerce, and direct them to the very banks of our own favored city.

It is only necessary, then, that art should, in a small degree, improve the advantages which nature has given us, to render our city the greatest and most prosperous of all those in the Mississippi valley.

Extract of a letter, from a gentleman at Ebensburg, dated

"NOVEMBER 10, 1833.

"I am pleased to hear that some interest is being excited, in the city, about the rail way cars—and that contracts have been made for the construction of a number of them. It is high time the matter was attended to; otherwise, at the opening of the spring business, we should be without any adequate means of transportation.—The car adopted on the Portage is calculated to carry three tons—the wheels are thirty three inches in diameter, and the weight of the car, complete, will be about 2,100 pounds. To accomodate the carrying trade of 1834, I presume that, from 85 to 100 cars will be wanted. This number will be sufficient to meet all delays, &c., required for repair. The trains that will also be engaged in the immediate transportation of coal, lumber, &c., will be numerous. It is highly probable, when a double track of rail way is completed, and the carrying trade in full operation, that not less than 250 cars will be required.

The rail way will be passable throughout in about twenty days. The non arrival of the iron has been a very considerable drawback. If it had been delivered in time, the road would have been ready before this. There is no doubt but the Legislature will be advised, on the first day of the session, that a train of cars has passed from Johnstown to Hollidaysburg.

On Friday night, the delegates from Philadelphia to Warren, arrived at Hollidaysburg, and, on Saturday morning, rainy and inclement as it was, they turned out for a jaunt of observation and inspection upon the rail road. They were conveyed in cars about 7 or 8 miles, and had a very satisfactory view of that portion of the road east of the summit. They will return by canal, from Pittsburgh to Johnstown, and thence across the western part of the portage. By this course they will have occular demonstration of the whole of this important link in the main line, and, as they are all intelligent, and some of them really practical men, I trust they will be enabled to enlighten their brother Philadelphians on the subject of our improvements and the general aspect of western Pennsylvania, about which the greater part of the grave people of that city, I am sorry to say, are sadly in the dark."

MAUCH CHUNK, Nov. 9.

100 Ton Boat.—In walking along the wharf, the other day, we were much pleased with the noble appearance of a large new Canal Boat, bearing the name of JOSIAH WHITE, of Easton, built and owned by Peter S. Michler of that place. The boat, we understand, is intended exclusively for the Lehigh Canal, to ply between Mauch Chunk and Easton, being about 16 1-2 feet, wide, and capable of carrying 100 tons. She lef this place with her first load in fine style, two days ago.

From the Friend.

PITTSBURGH.

There is something exceedingly inspiriting in the evidences of growing prosperity with which the eye is met in whatever direction it turns to look upon the scenes of this busy city. The market place, the wharf, and the open street, all bear testimony to its rising importance, and seem to vie with one another in representing the promise of its further greatness. The growth of the place has been for years steady and sure; but characteristically unostentatious and unpretending. It has proceeded all along by natural and unconstrained development; and on that account has seemed, for a time, less vigorous and promising than the precocious forms of prosperity that have been put forth by some other places of far less intrinsic stamina, whose pretensions on this account have taken up vastly more room in the world's eye.—But by reason of its being thus left to its own natural action, the growth of Pittsburgh has been healthful and strong; and on that very account, the imposing show which it is now beginning to put on will be as a matter of course the more striking and worthy of confidence. The hour of triumph, toward which the history of the place has been for a considerable time silently tending, has now come. The ground work of its greatness has been laid broad and secure, and already the superstructure is seen rising with a rapid acceleration of progress toward the lofty promise it is destined hereafter to realize. Already it begins to attract observation from afar, and each succeeding day the evidence becomes more commanding of its being worthy of attention and admiration.—The name of Pittsburgh is now familiar, where, a few years ago, it was scarcely known. And it is destined to become, in a little while, vastly more so. Every year, for some time, must add more to its growth than the one that preceded it. More buildings have been put up this year, than ever in a single year before; and arrangements are made, we understand, to have a far greater number still erected in the course of the next. In a very few years, under the influence of this breaking forth of its prosperity, the whole region of the town will be found to have put on a new aspect. The old "city proper" will have sunk, in regard to dimensions, into a mere ward of the city that will then be; sitting, as it were, in deep retirement, in the midst of her own daughters, the suburbs that shall have risen in proud splendor to do her homage upon every side. Streets and squares will be teeming with population, where now we have only the open field; and Pittsburgh will reign, enthroned upon her many waters and her many hills, mistress in size as well as strength of the whole valley of the west.

There is no extravagance now in calculations like these. The place is the natural centre of a wide spread territory, whose resources have only yet begun to be developed, and will be found hereafter sufficient of themselves to make a proud metropolis. Then the position which it occupies relatively to the east and west is such as must continue to extend and multiply the activities of its trade every year. There will always be that moreover in its own manufacturing character, which cannot fail to draw business of this sort toward it, and to make it a desirable point to be touched in the communication that must take place between the east and the west. It may be very reasonably inferred, therefore, that when all the facilities for such intercourse shall have been provided, which may and will be provided in this direction, no other will be preferred.

And Pittsburgh will be a beautiful city, as well as a great and wealthy one. It may be doubted, whether any other city in the world is more favorably situated for the purpose of embellishment and show. Who has met any where with landscape views more beautifully picturesque, than those which are presented to the eye of the spectator from the different summits that overlook, from every side, the meeting of its waters? Where shall we find hills more happily disposed for the exhibition of architectural taste? Where shall we look upon rivers more sweetly fitted to throw attraction upon the surrounding scene? As to location, in every respect, the place has pre-eminent advantages for all that pertains to tasteful and ornamental appearance. And the time is approaching, when these advantages will be appreciated and improved. Hitherto the great object with the people has been to make money rather than to cultivate show. The spirit of mere business has predominated over any other. But a change in this respect will soon take place. Business will go on; but, the refinements of life will come in for their measure of attention as in other cities. Under the influence of taste and ambition, a large amount of wealth will come to be turned to the mere purpose of outward show. For public uses, or to gratify private pride, every eminence in the vicinity will be surmounted with the most imposing and costly forms of improvement, and splendid gardens or splendid streets will be made to occupy all the hill sides around. Pittsburgh will then be a fair city to look upon, notwithstanding all her smoke and dust. The surrounding country, too, rich as it is in natural beauty, will wear an improved appearance under the cultivation of art; and altogether, perhaps, there will be no region in the land which strangers will visit with deeper interest, or in the midst of whose scenes they will linger with more pleasing admiration.

BOSTON.—We noticed in our last, one great improvement recently made in Boston—Commercial wharf, at an outlay of $150,000—but this seems a small thing compared with others which have been accomplished, or are about to be done! There is the Lowell rail road—the Worcester rail road—and the Providence rail road. The South Cove corporation has stayed the waves of the ocean, by the extension of wharves now covered with granite warehouses. White's farm, in Roxbury, is "being" covered with stately edifices.—The commanding eminence called East Boston, has been divided into building lots intended for summer residences—an extensive wharf (to be 310 feet wide and 1,000 long) is in progress, and a marine rail way, sugar refinery, &c. are to be erected, and trees planted. The streets are graded—and a hotel is building, &c. East Boston is on an island, and commands an entire view of the harbor and surrounding country—and, by a steam boat, may be reached in four minutes from the city proper. Independent of private dwellings and structures, there are five companies which are expected to disburse 480,000 dollars on this island. South Boston is a new, but important part of the city, already. Other great improvements are projected—and those made at Boston, N. York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, &c. certainly shew that the tariff has not "ruined the commerce" of the country, as was so loudly and confidently predicted. On the contrary, all these things in our sea ports, with a large part of that prosperity, which also of late years so much abounded in the interior, had their origin in the impulses given to domestic production, by the establishment of domestic markets, and the rapid and mighty circulations of values because of such production and market, aided by the facilities afforded in the transportation of persons and commodities. The internal trade of the U. States has, probably, been trebled in the last nine years—but the foreign trade has not materially changed. The fact is then evident, that it is the interior, and not the exterior commerce of the United States, on which we must chiefly depend for the subsistence and comfort of our rapidly increasing population.—Niles.

The Canal Meeting.—Agreeably to a notice published in the Repository, of Saturday last, a meeting of the citizens of Butler was held, in the Court House, yesterday evening, for the purpose of consulting upon, and doing something in relation to a Canal Convention, to be held at Warren, Ohio, to morrow. Dr. G. Linn, Jacob Mechling, and John Gilchrist, Esq., were the presiding officers; and Mr. Robert Cunningham officiated as Secretary. As we went into the meeting at a late hour, we did not hear or participate in all the proceedings. The first object of the meeting was to decide whether Butler county should be represented in the Warren Convention, which being decided, after much debate, in the negative, no further proceeding was necessary, and the meeting adjourned. So Butler county will not be represented in the Warren Convention.—Butler Sent., Nov. 12.

Scientific Discovery.—A discovery, which is likely to be attended with important results to the Navy, has recently been made, by Commander John Pearce, R. N., of Plymouth. This officer, from various circumstances, was led to doubt that the centre of gravity of a ship was the axis of rotation, as hitherto imagined, and that this was the cause of so many errors occurring in masting.—He accordingly proceeded to ascertain the truth of his doubts, by experiments, on different models, which he has continued for upwards of twelve months, and the result, we understand, cannot fail to render the science of ship building more comprehensive and demonstrative, as well as lead to the correction of other errors in the theory, equally worthy of consideration! The axis of rotation, has been fixed, by Capt. Pearce's experiment, at some distance above the gravity of the ship, and in the point which is known by the name of the tacentre; and, we understand, he considers the complexity of the theory, and not having considered the subject in a sufficiently practical shape, to have led authors into the error of confounding the centre of gravity of the ship with the axis of rotation; and that this has led to the error of supposing the laternal effort of the water, or resistance to leeway, to produce effects contrary to truth, and from which proceeds the present imperfect system of masting. In fact, the discovery of the true axis of rotation will be a complete key to the improvement of naval architecture, as all the forces, which are so constantly and variously acting, are estimated by the distances from the axis of rotation to the points where they are applied.—Eng. Paper.

We are glad to find, in the Southern papers, that the disposition to force a conflict between the settlers on the Creek lands, in Alabama, and the agents of the General Government is disapproved of in that State, and is discountenanced by some of the settlers themselves. The inhabitants of Taladega, one of the counties in the Creek country, lately held a public meeting, which was marked by much discretion and moderation. They admitted, unequivocally, the legal right of the General Government to the lands, the obligations of the law, and the strict claim of the Indians to the protection of the United States. They say that they "do not expect nor wish the Government to violate the treaty concluded with the Indians," but "hope that it will be executed on a plan that will save the settlers from ruin."—Baltimore American, November 11.

Traits of the Hyena.—Hyenas generally inhabit caverns and other rocky places, from whence they issue under cover of the night to prowl for food. They are gregarious, not so much from any social principle, as from a greediness of disposition, and a gluttonous instinct, which induce many to assemble even over a scanty and insufficient prey. They are said to devour the bodies which they find in cemeteries, and to disinter such as are hastily or imperfectly inhumed. There seems, indeed, to be a peculiar gloominess and malignity of disposition in the aspect of the hyena, and its manners, in a state of captivity, are savage and untractable. Like every other animal, however, it is perfectly capable of being tamed. A contradictory feature has been observed in its natural instincts. About Mount Libanus, Syria, the north of Asia, and the vicinity of Algiers, the hyenas, according to Bruce, live mostly upon large, succulent, bulbous roots, especially those of the frittillaria, &c.; and he informs us that he has known large patches of the fields turned up by them, in their search for onions, and other plants. He adds that these were chosen with so much care, that, after having been peeled, if any small decayed spot became perceptible, they were left upon the ground.

In Abyssinia, however, and many other countries, their habits are certainly decidedly carnivorous; yet the same courage, or at least fierceness, which an animal diet usually produces, does not so obviously manifest itself in this species. In Barbary, according to Bruce, the Moors, in the day time, seize the hyena by the ears, and drag him along, without his resenting that ignominious treatment otherwise than by attempting to draw himself back; and the hunters, when his cave is large enough to give them entrance, take a torch in their hands, and advance straight towards him, pretending, at the same time, to fascinate him by a senseless jargon. The creature is astounded by the noise and glare, and, allowing a blanket to be thrown over him, is thus dragged out. Bruce locked up a goat, a kid, and a lamb, all day with a hyena which had fasted, and he found the intended victims in the evening alive and uninjured. He repeated the experiment, however, on another occasion, during the night, with a young ass, a goat, and a fox; and next morning he was astonished to find the whole of them, not only killed, but actually devoured, with the exception of some of the ass's bones!

From the National Gazette.

Our first page contains an affecting story, entitled "The Intemperate," which we have taken from the Religious Souvenir, published by Messrs. Key & Biddle. It is from the pen of Mrs. Sigourney, and likely to be more efficacious than a solemn dissertation against the abominable vice, the miserable character and effects of which it is designed to illustrate. We do not go the lengths, nor use the tone of those who harangue or write most about Temperance; but no zealot in that cause can entertain a more profound abhorrence than we do, for the grossness and selfishness of ebriety. In the Souvenir, there is another story, well written, and imbued with much interest, under the title of "The Alvanache." We cannot refrain from bearing again our testimony to the beauty of the plates in this elegant little volume. The New York Commercial Advertiser mentions it thus—

"We are free to confess our admiration of this lovely volume. It is decidedly the gem of the year. Not only unquestionably superior in elegance and execution to all the others of its class, published in this country, but worthy in the fine and careful finish of the admirable engravings, to rank along with the best of those annually produced by the finished artists and abounding capital of England. We hope an unprecedented patronage will remunerate the spirited publishers, for producing, at such a liberal expense, a work not less creditable to themselves than to the state of art in the country."

We understand, says the Richmond Enquirer, that Peter V. Daniel, Esq., has declined the appointment of Attorney General of the United States, which has been tendered to him by the President.

Literary.—A most splendid Annual, for the ensuing year, and one that is likely to create quite a new era in art, was announced to appear in October. It is dedicated, by gracious permission, to her Majesty, and it is entitled "The Sacred Annual." It is illustrated in a manner both novel and elegant. The illustrations consist of highly finished fac similes of twelve original cabinet pictures of the first excellence, by the most distinguished living artists, who have painted the pictures expressly for the purpose. Among the subjects, are some of the most interesting events of the New Testament; and it is sufficient to mention the justly famed names of Wm. Etty, R. A. John Martin, J. B. Haydon, D. M'Clise, T. Von Holst, Franklin, Clayton, &c., as the Artists to guarantee the talent of the Paintings, and to stamp the merit of the undertaking. The work is also embellished with a very curious illuminated Missal Title, copied from an ancient manuscript of the 14th century. The drawings are all mounted on tinted papers, and the binding is most gorgeous, being violet colored silk velvet, with an antique mosaic gold clasp. John Martin has contributed three of the subjects; and the united efforts of upwards of fifty skilful and competent artists have been in requisition for many months past, to effect this arduous and truly unique undertaking.—London Paper.

Remarkable Case.—The Paris Academy of Medicine, lately reported the case of a man who died in July last, in that city, delirious, and in the right venticle of whose heart was found imbedded a needle, which extended into the cavity. No trace of a cicatrix by which the needle might have entered, could be discovered on the exterior of the body. He had been suffering for some months from shivering and pain in the side.—Boston Merc. Jour.

The following very singular remark is made by the Globe, of the 9th inst.—"Under former administrations, American Ministers would go and return from Europe like messengers—as idle pageants sent abroad to pay mere visits of ceremony, and leave our national card at the palace of some potentate. Outfits and salaries were expended in keeping up this sort of parade of diplomacy. But this merely formal intercourse has been changed into a business affair."

It is the opinion of many reflecting persons, that the Emancipation of the slaves in the British West Indies, will have the same effect that it is said to have produced in St. Domingo. It will paralyze, at least for a time, the agriculture of the Islands—lessen their productions—and raise the price of sugars. In this case, the duty on the article may be still further reduced—and a greater demand for our slaves may be created, for cultivating the sugar lands in Florida and Louisiana—in addition to the value which the increased prices of cotton have already produced. Thus, our slaves may be taken off in greater numbers, and at higher prices—and the population of the South Atlantic States undergo a considerable modification.—Richmond Whig.

Canton.—By the Brig Ivanhoe, from Canton, we have received Canton papers to the 10th June. They contain nothing of particular interest. Accounts had reached Canton, from Batavia, which stated that great alarm prevailed at the latter place, in consequence of an expected rupture between England and France on the one hand, and Holland on the other, growing out of the affairs of Belgium. Measures were taking for defending the harbors of Batavia and Samarang from an expected attack, and three British men of war had been seen cruising at the entrance of the straits of Gaspar. Sales of Coffee had been appointed by the Java Government to take place in August, at Batavia, Samarang, and Sourabaya, at each of which places ten thousand peculs were to be offered.—N. Y. Courier.

A gentleman of Northfield Massachusetts, whose wife was on board the steam boat New England, at the time of the late explosion, is about to commence an action for damages before the U. States District Court. This measure will fix the responsibility where it should be, upon the owners. It is high time that something should be done to stay the profligate waste of human life on board these misnamed "public conveniencies." In G. Britain, there is a law imposing severe penalties upon the captain of each steam boat who raises the steam beyond a certain height, and the safety valve is under the exclusive control of a government officer; these precautionary measures have rendered traveling by steam quite as safe as by land carriages and stages, steam boat disasters are a rare occurrence in England.—Dunstable Gaz.

Printing in France and Germany.—Paris was the tenth town in Europe in which a printing press was established; it was set up by Ulrich Gering, a native of the canton of Lucerne, in the house of the Sarbonne, and in the year 1469. In 1830 there were 233 towns in France, which had, altogether 620 printing houses, and 259 towns in which 1,142 booksellers were established. Paris alone had 80 presses, and nearly one half of the booksellers (506) dwelt within its walls. Lyons had but 12 presses and 20 booksellers. The average result is, that there is one press in France to every 51,327 inhabitants, and one bookseller to every 27,763. The proportions are far more indicative of intellectual advancement in Prussia, Saxony, Weimar, and Switzerland. In the first there are 230 printing houses and 693 presses, the majority being in Berlin, Halle, Cologne, and Breslau, and the proportion is one printing establishment to every 46,213 souls, taking the population of 1830, which was 12,939,877, as the basis of the calculation. As to Saxony, the proportion must be infinitely more striking; for Leipsic alone employs 120 presses. Weimar possesses twelve printing houses, with a population of 230,000 souls, the proportion is consequently one printing house to every 19,168 inhabitants. And lastly, Switzerland, the population of which amounts to 2,000,000, possesses between 145 and 150 presses attached to 47 printing establishments, which work scarcely more than two thirds of the year round, where the proportion is one printing press to every 4,713 souls.

Organized Force of France.—Extract from the Report of the Minister of War:—On the 1st of January, 1833, the effective strength of the army was 421,494 men, and 82,057 horses. The ordinance, equipped, consisted of 1459 pieces of cannon ready for service, with a park of reserve, and a double supply of ammunitions, viz: 834 field pieces, divided into 139 batteries, all mounted according to the new system, and 625 field pieces in the hands of the National Guards, who had been provided with 918,968 muskets.

The officers and crew of the Warren sloop of war were paid off on Friday. The money distributed among the sailors, amounts, we understand, to twenty nine thousand dollars; and they who received it seem to have been spending it as rapidly as possible. The crew, while yet under the command of the officers, was one that Nelson or Truxton would have approved. As soon as they found themselves freed from the control of the excellent officers who had kept them in good order for more than two years, many of them, especially in the theatres and in the streets, displayed such samples of the jolity of sailors on shore, that the sober citizens of Philadelphia, for at least three years to come, will be ready to forgive the Secretary of the Navy for selecting New York and Norfolk, as the proper places for discharging the crews of our Navy.—Phila. Daily Chronicle.

The President has despatched Francis S. Key, Esq. to Alabama, in consequence of the existing difficulties, relative to the Indian Lands, within the limits of that state.—Poulson.

The Alexandria Gazette, of the 11th inst., says—"The District is full of rumors, relative to the confused state of things, brought on by the removal of the deposits, and some even go so far as to say that they will be removed back again!!"

Machinery.—Mr. Smart, of the Ordnance Wharf, has several circular saws, worked by a horse, in a moderate sized walk. They are intended for cutting and boring tenons, used in the hollow masts; and, by this process, with horse power, at least 30 tenons may be completed in a minute, with greater accuracy than a man could make one in a quarter of an hour, with the common hand saw and a gimblet. This single piece of machinery must, therefore, do the work of 450 men.—United Service Journal.

The Winchester Virginian says, that at least one hundred contractors are in that town, competitors for the contract to grade the Rail Road to Harper's Ferry.—Balt. Amer.

A London papei states that Mrs. Trollope was lately brought up before the Bow street Police, and fined 21 shillings for beating one of her servant girls. This is a striking proof of that lady's own "Domestic Manners."

Contracts have been concluded for the construction of a Macadamized turnpike from Hagerstown to Williamsport.—Balt. Amer.

THE SHETLAND WIDOW.

In consequence of the gale, which, in the autumn of 1832, wrecked so many unfortunate Shetland fishermen, their widows were obliged to supply their places in the boats, to save their families from famine.

"Aye lend thine aid, my son, to push
The shallop from the shore;
For I must take thy father's place
To ply the feathered oar;
And out upon the faithless sea
Must thou, my little steersman, be.

"And thou wilt trim the sail, and steer
Head land and low reef by;
And mark where sunken rocks beneath
The deeper waters lie.
Small skill, I know, my son, is thine;
But yet, alas! still less is mine.

"My weak heart trembles, thus to see
Our cot no longer near;
And view the lessening winding shore
Like a faint line appear.
My babes! shall I e'er see you more,
Or tread again that flying shore?"

"Mother, thou see'st the blue waves break,
And sparkle in the sun:
And we our laden bark shall moor,
Ere yet the day is done."
"So smiled the sea that very day,
That last thy father went away.

"But inland, see, the sea mews veer;
I fear a flurry's nigh;
Glad I could sleep beneath the waves,
But could not see thee die.
How near these wailing storm birds keep,
And o'er the roughening billows sweep!"

"Nay, courage, mother, ne'er before
Wast thou outside the bay;
For often thus, from stem to stern,
The stormy petrels play,
And rest thee on thine oar, the gale,
With gentle breathings, fills the sail.

"And o'er the crested ocean waves,
Our skiff shall gaily ride;
As o'er the breakers and the surf
We see yon sea fowl glide.
And he who guides the sea bird thus,
Will, surely, mother, think of us."

"God bless thee, boy! thou art my stay,
While I should comfort thee;
The widow and the orphan's God
Is He, who rules the sea;
And I will trust his power to guide
Our shallop homeward o'er the tide." L.

DAILY PAPER AT HARRISBURGH.—The subscribers propose to publish a Daily Paper during the coming session of the Legislature, provided a sufficient number of subscribers are procured to warrant the expense. The necessity of a daily journal at the seat of government, impartial as to politics, and giving the debates of both houses, fully, faithfully, and daily, has long since been acknowledged. Such a paper cannot be sustained in Harrisburg, unless the citizens of other sections of the state come forward and aid in its support. At the present stage of our improvement system, and fiscal conserns of the commonwealth, a daily paper, the statements of which can be depended upon, published at the seat of government, must be a desideratum of all parties. We therefore shall expect that exertions will be made in every section of the state to procure us subscribers.

The Daily Pennsylvania Intelligencer will be printed on a half imperial sheet, for five dollars (in advance,) during the session. It will not only contain full and impartial daily reports of the proceedings of the Legislature, but will contain a summary of the proceedings of Congress, besides news and miscellaneous reading. ☞Post Masters and Agents procuring four subscribers, shall receive a fifth copy gratis.

$10 REWARD.

ABSCONDED, for the second time, on the 2d instant, an indented apprentice to the Coppersmith business, named SAMUEL RODGERS, he is aged about 20 years, and 5 or 6 months; is about 5 feet 8 inches high, dark hair, gray eyes, fair complexion, and may be known by his very forward and boisterous manner, particularly among his shopmates; he took with him a light olive cloth surtout coat, a deep blue cloth straight bodied coat, one pair blue cloth pantaloons, one pair Kentucky Jean pantaloons, a black fur hat, considerably worn, together with a quantity of other clothing.

The above reward, but no charges, will be given to any person returning said apprentice to his masters, in Pittsburgh. All persons are forbid harboring, trusting, or employing said apprentice, as the law will be rigidly enforced against any person for so doing.

SIX EGYPTIAN MUMMIES

In the Diamond, next door to the office of The Pittsburgh Gazette.

THE features of some of these mummies are in perfect expression—the hair of the head preserved as if now living. For the direct purpose of giving visitors, of all descriptions, that wish to see the ancients themselves, and likewise the bodies that were embalmed not less than three thousand years ago, this collection was exhibited to a numerous concourse of visitors, in the city of Philadelphia, for the space of 3 months; and next in Baltimore, in the Museum, for five weeks, where contract was only made for two weeks, and continued for five weeks by request. The inhabitants of this city, it is hoped, will call, and patronize a collection worthy the attention of the curious.

The proprietor is authorized to use the names of the most eminent physicians and professors in the city of Philadelphia, and likewise that of Baltimore.

FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Frankiin Institute, of tha state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscribers, Trustees of the New Philadelphia Society, at Phillipsburgh, Beaver county, Pennsylvania, offer for sale the following property, to wit:

1	tract of land containing		330	acres
1	do	do	330
1	do	do	67
1	do	do	7
1	do	do	40
	other lots, containing about		6

The above lands lie in one body, fronting about two miles upon the Ohio river—immediately opposite the mouth of Big Beaver creek, and the Beaver Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The land is rich, and a part of it under a high state of cultivation—its location pleasant and healthy. The improvements upon the same are valuable, including the town of Phillipsburgh, late the residence of Count Leon, and the New Philadelphia Society. The town contains about 40 Dwelling Houses, now in order; some of them brick houses and two stories high. A large and spacious Hotel, a Store house, Church, a number of Shops, for mechanics, Stables, Barns, and other out houses. Also, two large new buildings, lately erected, but not yet finished, one of brick, the other of frame (the latter suitable for a manufactory) a very extensive public garden, and also fruit trees of various kinds. The property has also attached to it the right of a ferry across the Ohio, which is valuable, and becoming more so every day.

The above property is situated in the midst of a wealthy and prosperous country, distant about 28 miles below Pittsburgh, and one mile from Beaver, the seat of justice for Beaver county---and having a view for many miles up and down the Ohio, and of the country to a great distance around.

The subscribers are confident in saying that few situations could be found, presenting greater facilities to the farmer, mechanic, the manufacturer, and others--- a soil rich and productive---the neighborhood abounding in coal---well timbered and watered, and, by means of the Pennsylvania Canal, and steamboat navigation, a cheap and ready conveyance to market, and a communication with other places is ensured.

The property is susceptible of divisions into farms, or for the location of new towns, or for the extension of the present one.

Should it not be sold on or before the first day of January next, it will then be offered at public sale, upon the premises, to the highest and best bidder.

It will be sold in a body, or in parcels, to suit purchasers.

Terms of sale will be reasonable.

Information can be had by enquiring of the subscribers, two of whom live in the neighborhood, and one on the premises.

PERIODICALS.

AMERICAN RAILROAD JOURNAL, and Advocate of Internal Improvements, which is designed as a repository of the accounts of the rise and progress of numerous works of Internal Improvement, in the United States particularly, and in other parts of the world generally. The work is published weekly, and forms a large octavo volume each year, of 832 pages of 3 columns each, for $3 per annum, in advance.

New York Farmer, and American Gardener's Magazine. This work is designed for the agriculturist, and will be found to contain much, both interesting and profitable, to those who cultivate the soil as a business, or merely a garden for amusement. Published in monthly parts of 32 large octavo pages, with three columns each, at $3 per annum, in advance.

Mechanics' Magazine, and Register of Improvements and Inventions. To the Mechanics of the United States---In this populous and enlightened country, almost every description of persons can obtain knowledge and amusement connected with their peculiar pursuits, through the medium of the Journal or Magazine, especially devoted to their interests. The Theologian, the Farmer, the Philosopher, the Sportsman, and even the Plough Boy, has each his Journal, where he can find a record of the passing events of the day, connected with his peculiar avocations and recreations. Hitherto, the Mechanics (who form a large and most important portion of the community) have had no Journal, to which they could turn, with the certainty of finding that information they desire, no periodical of which they could say: 'This is ours, and for us.' In the hope that the attempt to supply such a want at a price so reasonable as to be within the reach of all, will meet with your active support, the subscriber proposes to publish, on the first day of each month, a Mechanics' Magazine. It will contain a well digested selection of the most useful and interesting articles in the London Mechanics' Magazine, London Register of Arts and Sciences, Repertory of Inventions, Library of Useful Knowledge, Journal of the Franklin Institute, and other works, connected with the arts and manufactures, published in this country and in Europe, accompanied with numerous and well executed Engravings. Its pages will be open for the communications of all, and especially for those of the practical artisan, to whose interest it will be particularly devoted. The Mechanics' Magazine will contain, also, a due portion of the occurrences of the month, Scientific and Literary Reviews of Books, Anecdotes, Economical Receipts, Reports of the state of Mechanics' Institutions, and other Scientific Societies in this state and other countries. To be published monthly. Each succeeding number will contain 64 pages, handsomely printed, and stitched in a neat cover. Six numbers will form a volume, for which an index and title page will be supplied, and also a Portrait of some distinguished Mechanic, as a Frontispiece. Terms, $3 per annum, in advance.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S
☞ WELCH MEDICAMENTUM. ☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints. Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

UTICA, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bing my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞ A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes givingt emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale the farm on which he lives, in Washington county, on Pigeon creek, one mile south of Williamsport, on the Monongahela river, to which there is a perfectly level road. This farm contains near 400 acres, the greater part of which is first rate land. There is on the premises a Brick Dwelling House, a Merchant mill, in good repair, a new saw mill, a stone still house, 35 by 40 feet; a salt works is also in operation, and worked to advantage; about 150 acres of land cleared and under good fence. There is on the premises three small tenements for the accommodation of families. This tract is well timbered, and abounds with stone coal and springs of water, both of the best quality.

To a person wishing to embark in a manufacturing business, and possessing capital, this would be a very desirable situation, having the advantage of both water power from Pigeon creek, and banks of the very best coal near to the works, and easy of access, and its vicinity to so navigable a river where articles of any kind are so cheaply transported to Pittsburgh.

For further particulars, apply to James P. Stuart, Merchant, Wood street, Pittsburgh, or to the subscriber on the premises.

To Baltimore and Philadelphia
TRAVELLERS.

THE LINE OF STAGES between Chambersburgh and Baltimore, on the Somerset and Mountpleasant route, has been doubled, and now runs DAILY, (Mondays excepted,) leaving Chambersburgh at day-light in the morning, and arriving in Baltimore, early the same evening.

Passengers reach Philadelphia, in this way, the second afternoon, from Chambersburgh, without the loss of any rest; taking the splendid STEAM BOAT LINES, which set out at 6 o'clock in the morning, [via CHESAPEAKE AND DELAWARE CANAL, a work well worth the trip to see.]

REESIDE, Owner.

In all cases where the passengers desire to reach Baltimore in time for the 5 o'clock steam-boat to Philadelphia, they can do so by leaving Chambersburgh at one o'clock in the morning, or immediately after the arrival of the Western Mail Stage. In this way, they arrive in Philadelphia, by eight o'clock the second morning, from Chambersburgh.

☞ When a load offers, the stage will run on Mondays. April 23, 1830.—tf.
